Making Friends with Death

Sunday 11th January 2015

What's Love Got To Do With It?

VEN AMY MILLER (Ven. Lobsang Chodren) has been teaching Buddhism since 1992 and was ordained as a Buddhist nun in 2000. She emphasises a practical approach to integrating Buddhism and Buddhist philosophy in to everyday life. Ven Amy has completed a 7 month solitary retreat in California, and also spent a great deal of time engaged in study and Buddhist Centre management throughout the world.

Saturday – Making Friends with Death. Ven. Amy will introduce the importance of making awareness of death and the impermanent nature of events an integral part of our lives. A deep understanding of death, the uncertainty of its timing, and its inevitability, serves as a basis and motivation for leading a more meaningful and positive life. She will also draw on her practical experience of caring for the dying and extensive hospice training. All are welcome.

Sunday – What's Love Got To Do With It?

Maybe more than we think! Ven. Amy will explore the difference between our usual concepts and ideas surrounding love, and the Buddhist approach which emphasises the wish for others to be happy and encourages each one of us to play our part in making this happen. A clear understanding of the differences between love and attachment can be of enormous benefit in both our spiritual journey and everyday life. Again, all are welcome.
